

Figure 1: An example of a computational graph produced using the method in §?? characterizing how our unknown feature is computed on an unseen input. A single path is highlighted in red and annotated with component-by-component attributions.